A Word to Republicans.

The hope of the party lies in the expansion lwart Republican press. The Republican who reads or otherwise helps to support a Democratic paper to the exclusion of one of his own party newspapers is untrue to the Republican cause.

Unanimously subscribed to by the National Republican League.

J. S. CLARKSON, President. A. B. HUMPHREY, Secretary.

ENGLAND has been for years the main obstacle in the way of some satisfactory international agreement as to the larger use of silver in the currency of Nations. She has clung with dogged persistency to her monometallistic doctrines, notwithstanding that India has suffered in consequence. The defeat at the polls of President Harrison and his party decidedly weakens the influence of our delegates to the Brussels Monetary Conference, which meets next Tuesday. Since they were appointed by the President, other Nations will take his failure of re-election as a repudiation by the beginning often terminates in consome advance will necessarily be made was soon started, which is difficult to conmists who will represent all the greatest commercial Nations.

GOVERNOR MCKINLEY has not the slightest intention of being pushed to the rear by the Mugwumps and Freetraders, who appeared to imagine that the result of the Presidential election the result of the Presidential election would be to crush the champion of Protection and the cause he represents. In an address to the Ohio League of Republican Clubs on Thursday Governor McKinley had no apology for the past, but was full of courage for the future. "I feel," he said, "like congratulating you that so soon after the fight you are on hand, ready for the fray that is to come later. I don't think that any cause that is just is ever lost. All that we have to do, now that we have lost the election, is to get ready for the next fight. Our principles are just as clear to us as they ever were, and they are lust as essential to prosperity and to the country. I am sure no Republican who loves this country will lose courage."

These are manly and truthful words. The Republican party has been repulsed but not defeated, and presents as resolute a front as ever to the foe.

ONE hundred and seventy thousand men in round numbers voted for BENJA-MIN HARRISON in New York City and Brooklyn, says The New York Press.

The 170,000 Republican voters of New York and Brooklyn constitute a magnificent array of patriotic and intelligent citizens. They are men whose adality to their political principles is as unselfab as it is unwavering. They form an army in whose ranks every public spirited American in the two great cities of the Empire state may well by proud to enroll himself; an army whose ultimate victory is as certain as the eventual triumph of progress and enlightenment over ignorance and un-American ideas.

A NEW YORK Mugwump organ, acting on the assumption that American woolen manufacturers are governed entirely by selfish and mercenary motives, urges the Republican Senate to pass the Springer Free Wool bill, on the ground that the enactment of this measure for the destruction of the American wool growing industry will prove of temporary benefit to the manufacturers themselves.

Neither the Republican Senators nor the woolen manufacturers will be misled by this absurd and dishonest cry. The great mass of men engaged in manufacturing woolens in this country are Protectionists on principle because the believe that complete Protection to American industry is a benefit to the whole country. The position of the New England woolen manufacturers in regard to the free admission of cheap foreign wools is shown by the fact that ninety-five per cent. of their whole number signed a petition to Congress protesting against the abolition of the Protective duties on American wool.

American manufacturers, as a class, are willing to give the other people the same Protection that they ask for their own business. They realize that an injury to one is the concern of all. They hold that the farmer, as well as the business man, should share in the advantages of Protection; and they will saying he did not desire a re-election, treat the Free-trade attempt to enlist them in an attack on the country's agricultural interests with the contempt which it deserves.

MARSHAL FRY and Miss Mary Knight, both of this county, will be married at the Baptist Church at Lewisburg on Wednesday, the 23d inst.

THE KNIGHTS.

Powderly Begs That Some One Else Be Elected Master Workman, but His Wishes Are Ignored.

St. Louis, Nov. 22.-At Monday's ses sion of the Knights of Labor, after the disposal of the remaining general business, a motion to proceed to elect officers for the ensuing year prevailed. Mr. Powderly was at once placin nomination for re-election the office of general masworkman. He at once rose ter to his feet and addressed those present, and begged them to select some one else. In order to leave the delegates free to speak their minds, he left the hall while the vote was being taken. A number of delegates spoke, the almost unanimous sentiment being that the order at large demanded and the cause of labor required his re-election. A secret ballot was taken, and Mr. Powderly was chosen by a vote of 102 to 6 scattering. Other officers were selected as follows: General worthy foreman, Hugh Cavanaugh; general secretary-treasurer, John W. Hayes; members of the executive board, Terrance V. Powderly, ex-officio chairman; A. W. Wright, John Devlin, John Davis and T. R. McGuire. All of the foregoing except McGuire were re-elected. The latter was a member of the board up to 1888, when he was defeated at Indianapolis. Since 1888 he has been acting as general organizer for the executive board, and will probably continue to act in that members is unanimous that the newlyelected officials are the best that could be selected for the various offices.

FLOOD IN IRELAND.

County Cork Under Water-Several Persons Drowned.

DUDLIN, Nov. 22.—The Blackwater river, in County Cork, has overflowed its banks and adjacent stretches of country are inundated for miles. In the town of Fermoy, which is on the banks of the river, there was almost utter darkness Monday night, owing to the fact that the gas works of the town are submerged. Many of the inhabitants of the flooded region are removing their household goods to higher ground There have been heavy, prolonged rains in the county and extensive tracts in the lowlands are flooded. A number of mountain water courses are swollen into veritable torrents, and one of these rushing streams has worked fatal havoc. A house at the base of Claedough mountain has been swept away and most of its occupants were drowned. Numbers of other houses are inundated and numerous sheep have been drowned.

NO FLAG FOR FORT SUMTER.

During the recent grand army enampment an enthusiastic veteran introduced a resolution calling upon the secretary of war to hoist an American flag over Fort Sumter, in Charleston herbor. In the excitement of the moment the resolution went through with-The total vote in the state, according out opposition or investigation. carried out. For instance, if the flag was hoisted over Fort Sumter, a foreign warship might visit the harbor of Charleston. In accordance with the naval regulations of the world the foreign ships would salute the American flag, and expect a similar salute in return. The foreigner could not be expected to know that Fort Sumter is unoccupied and was simply floating its country's flag as a matter of sentiment. Not having his salute acknowledged the foreigner would be justified in charging this country with discourtesy, and would have a right to demand a explanation. The ordnance sergeant stationed there could hardly return a foreign warship's salute with an old musket or revolver which he happens to have with him in his quarters as a matter of personal protection. When the secretary of war refers the resolution to the chief of engineers he will probably receive an answer containing the substance of the foregoing state-

FOUND AFTER TWO YEARS.

A Pocketbook Which Was Recovered Through a Lost Collar Button

A lady who had been staying in Albany was returning to her home in Philadelphia by way of the Hudson river and New York. After spending a night on the boat her pocketbook, which contained her ticket and all her money, was missing. She was quite sure that it was in her pocket when she went to her stateroom at night; but in the morning the most minute search of the room and of her clothing failed to bring it to light. A fellow passenger loaned her sufficient money for her ticket to Philadelphia, and once at home the loss of the pocketbook quickly passed from her memory. Two years afterward, when again in Albany, she was summoned one day to the drawing-room to speak to an unknown gentleman who had something important to communi-cate to her. The something important proved to be the old lost pocketbook, which the gentleman had just found on a Hudson river boat, and which-having in it the lady's name with an Albany address—he had no difficulty in taking directly to her. The account which he gave the Home Journal of the discovery was most amusing. While dressing his collar button had slipped from his hand and, with the total depravity characteristic of collar buttons and other inanimate things, had rolled to the least accessible corner of the stateroom. In the course of his search for it he had opened wide the half-closed door of the stationary wash stand and there, in a corner, covered with dust and mold, was the pocketbook, which must have lain in that exact position for two whole years.

A Flying Serpent.

The Calcutta Indian Gentleman relates the following most remarkable story: A few days ago Atkama Yatzry. a Bengalese gentleman, residing on the flat seven miles north of Shuttezat, saw, as he affirms, an enormous serpent floating along in a fleecy white "te-zayer" or "wind cloud." The cloud and its scaly passenger floated directly over Mr. Yatzry's farm and bore off in the direction of the "Great Blue Jungle" and disappeared from view. Over a score of men, women and boys who were working along the flat at the time of the phenomenal occurrence attest that they plainly saw the same hideous monster in his ethereal flight, One witness describes the serpent as being at least four "tsongs" (two hundred feet) in length and as big around as a man's body. All witnesses concur in saying that the head and foreparts of the creature resembled an alligator more than anything else. It was yellow and black-striped, according to all witnesses, and kept its body in continued motion as long as it remained in sight. The natives are said to be much excited over the matter.

Not All Imagination.

The most remarkable manifestation of the great religious movement which swept over this country just before the war of 1812, was the physical and nervous disorder known as "the jerks." The jerks took their name from the fact that the arms and legs would be thrown about apparently by a force beyond control of the individual. The disorder was epidemic in Tennessee. A slave-owner, a man of great wealth and prominence, and irreligious, called his slaves together one Sunday morning, when a camp meeting was in progress near by, and announced his deliberate intention of horse-whipping any one of their number who took the jerks. "It is all imagination," he said, "and I will whip any one of you that takes it within an inch of his life." He went to camp meeting, and while conversing with a friend in the outskirts of the ground, was told that one of his negroes had the jerks. Seising his horsewhip, he hastened toward the spot. and, when half way, was himself seised by
